27 Nation, and the restoration, preservation, and enhancement of land and water resources
28 within the Navajo Nation. 4 N.N.C. § 1303.

29
30 SECTION TWO. FINDINGS.

- 1 A. On August 5, 2015, the United States Environmental Protection Agency (“U.S. EPA”)
2 and its contractors triggered a blowout of the Gold King Mine near Silverton, CO, while 3 excavating the mine in preparation for a possible cleanup.
- 4 B. The blowout released at least three million gallons of toxic acid mine wastewater into 5 Cement Creek, a tributary of the Animas River which flows into the San Juan River
6 and through the Navajo Nation. At least 880,000 pounds of heavy metals poured out
7 and coursed through downstream waterways, including approximately two hundred 8 miles of the San Juan River.
- 9 C. Prior to the spill, the San Juan River provided water to many Navajo farmers and 10 ranchers for irrigation of crops, livestock drinking water, and personal drinking water.
11 The San Juan River is and remains not only an important water resource for agricultural 12 use, but also of great cultural significance for the Diné people.
- 13 D. As a result of the spill, water utilities were forced to shut down intake valves, and 14 farmers stopped drawing from the rivers as the plume moved downstream. One of the 15 Navajo people’s most important sources of water for life and livelihood was poisoned
16 with some of the worst contaminants known to man, including lead and arsenic. The 17 impact of this environmental disaster cannot be overstated. On August 8, 2015, the 18 Navajo Nation declared a State of Emergency for the San Juan River valley.
- 19 E. In addition, the Navajo Nation Environmental Protection Agency (“NN EPA”) 20 conducted water quality monitoring and ecological restoration activities including, 21 among other things, sediment sampling and a fish tissue contaminant study to 22 understand contaminant levels and potential human health risks associated with the 23 spill.
- 24 F. NN EPA also developed a report on livestock and irrigation water quality standards, 25 tracked metal sources through ongoing studies, created a communication strategy, 26 assessed and stored analytical water quality data, and assisted the U.S. EPA and the 27 U.S. Geological Survey with other technical studies.
- 28 G. In the months immediately after the spill, the U.S. EPA publicly acknowledged its fault.
29 Additionally, two different Congressional committees found the U.S. EPA to be at fault 30 for the spill.

- 1 H. On August 16, 2016, the Navajo Nation filed a lawsuit against the U.S. EPA and its 2 contractors, as well as several mining companies, in the US District Court for the
3 District of New Mexico (Navajo Nation v. USEPA, et al., No. 1:16-cv-00931
4 (D.N.M.)). The lawsuit seeks recovery for damages caused by the August 2015 spill,
5 as well as reimbursement for costs spent responding to the spill. The Navajo Nation's 6 case was eventually consolidated into In re Gold King Mine Release in San Juan
7 County, Colorado on August 5, 2015, 1:18-md-02824 (D.N.M.) (the "Consolidated
8 Case") with similar suits brought by the States of New Mexico and Utah.
- 9 I. In September 2016, the U.S. EPA designated the Gold King Mine and 47 other mining
10 sites in the area a Superfund cleanup district. The U.S. EPA worked with Navajo
11 Nation Department of Emergency Management to provide alternative drinking, 12 agricultural, and livestock water and feed.
- 13 J. In December 2016, the Nation submitted an administrative claim to the U.S. EPA under 14 the Federal Tort Claims Act, a prerequisite to suing the United States in tort, in the 15 amount of approximately $160 million.
- 16 K. In addition, claims on behalf of approximately 300 individual Navajo tribal members 17 remain pending in Allen et al. v. United States, et al., 1:18-CV-00744 (D.N.M.). These 18 claims were filed in a separate 2018 lawsuit by the Egolf Ferlic Martinez & Harwood
19 Law Firm, and are also coordinated into the Consolidated Case, In re Gold King Mine
20 Release in San Juan County, Colorado on August 5, 2015, 1:18-md-02824 (D.N.M.).
- 21 L. On May 11, 2018, the Nation filed a First Amended Complaint to the Consolidated
22 Case adding the United States as a named defendant.
- 23 M. In January 2021, the Nation announced that it had reached a settlement in the 24 Consolidated Case with the defendant mining companies, Kinross Gold Corp., Kinross
25 Gold U.S.A., Inc., and Sunnyside Gold Corp., a subsidiary of Canada's Kinross Gold, 26 in the amount of ten million dollars ($10,000,000) million to resolve claims from the 27 2015 spill. (Which case was settled or partially settled?
- 28 N. The Nation's lawsuit against the remaining Defendants of the Consolidated Case 29 including the U.S. EPA and its contractors who caused the spill remains ongoing.
