CJY-54-00

RESOLUTION OF THE
NAVAJO NATION COUNCIL

Approving Amendments to 17 N.N.C. §§ 390-395 to Distinguish Between Industrial Hemp and Marijuana
Based on the Percentage of T.H.C. Contained
Within the Cannabis Plant

WHEREAS:

1. Pursuant to 2 N.N.C. §102 (A), the Navajo Nation Council is the governing body of the Navajo Nation; and
2. Pursuant to 2 N.N.C. §103, all powers not delegated are reserved to the Navajo Nation Council; and
3. During 1996, several members and entities of the Navajo Nation expressed a desire to grow industrial hemp (not marijuana) for economic purposes; and
4. Although industrial hemp and marijuana are from the same species of plant - Cannabis sativa, there is a scientific difference between them, documents supporting this are attached hereto as Exhibit "A". Industrial hemp generally refers to plant species of cannabis sativa and Cannabis indica that possess high fibers and usually contain low levels of Tetrahydrocannabinol (T.H.C.) Marijuana refers to plant species of cannabis sativa that possess low fibers and high levels of T.H.C. It is high levels of T.H.C. that gives marijuana its hallucinogenic effect; and
5. Hemp can be used for many purposes, such as fabrics, pulp, paper, oil, paints, sealants, fuel and food. Documents supporting this assertion are attached hereto as Exhibit "B". In fact, hemp has long been used throughout United States history; the first two copies of the Declaration of Independence were written on hemp. Until the 1820's, 80 percent of America's textile and fabrics and other products were made from hemp. During World War II, the United States encouraged farmers to grow hemp which was used for wartime purposes, like parachutes, riggings, ropes and fire hoses of wartime ships. Documents supporting these assertions are attached hereto as Exhibit "C"; and

6. President Bill Clinton in Executive Order 121 dated June 7, 1994, (attached hereto as Exhibit "D") Part IX General Provisions (a) states that cannabis hemp is a strategic food source; and

7. The growing of industrial hemp in the United States is allowed only by federal permit, and several states have permits pending to grow industrial hemp within their jurisdiction. These states have passed legislation recognizing the distinction between industrial hemp and marijuana and have amended their criminal laws and passed legislation regulating the growing of industrial hemp. Documents supporting this assertion are attached hereto as Exhibit "E"; and

8. During this time of declining Navajo Nation revenues, the Navajo Nation should begin exploring other means of economic development for its members. Researching or allowing the production of industrial hemp may provide economic development to the Navajo Nation. However, before the Navajo Nation can research or allow industrial hemp to be produced, the Navajo Nation must first amend its criminal law; and

9. In order for the Navajo Nation to allow the growing of industrial hemp for economic development purposes, the Navajo Nation must amend its criminal law that pertains to controlled substance, 17 N.N.C. §§ 390-395. Attached hereto as Exhibit "F" are proposed amendments to the 17 N.N.C. §§ 390-395; and

10. The Resources Committee of the Navajo Nation Council by Resolution RCAP-75-00, attached hereto as Exhibit "G", approved and recommended that the Public Safety Committee of the Navajo Nation Council approve amendments to 17 N.N.C. §§ 390-395; and

11. The Economic Development Committee of the Navajo Nation Council by Resolution EDCMY-39-00, attached hereto as Exhibit "H", approved and recommended that the Public Safety Committee of the Navajo Nation Council, and the Navajo Nation Council approve amendments to 17 N.N.C. §§ 390-395; and

12. The Public Safety Committee of the Navajo Nation Council by Resolution PSCAP-08-00, attached hereto as Exhibit "I", approved and recommended that the Navajo Nation Council approve amendments to 17 N.N.C. §§ 390-395, to distinguish between industrial hemp and marijuana based on the percentage of T.H.C. contained within the cannabis plant; and

13. The Navajo Nation Council finds that it is in the best interest of economic development within the Navajo Nation that these amendments be adopted and the health, welfare and safety of the Navajo people will not be endangered thereby.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED THAT:

1. The Navajo Nation Council hereby approves amendments to 17 N.N.C. §§ 390-395, attached hereto as Exhibit "F", which distinguishes between industrial hemp and marijuana based on the percentage of T.H.C. contained within the cannabis plant.

2. The enactment of this resolution does not authorize the cultivation, growth, possession, development or propagation of industrial hemp until the Navajo Nation creates a regulatory system for industrial hemp and obtains necessary and applicable permits for industrial hemp.

CERTIFICATION

I hereby certify that the foregoing resolution was duly considered by the Navajo Nation Council at a duly called meeting in Window Rock, Navajo Nation (Arizona) at which a quorum was present and that the same was passed by a vote of 58 in favor, 11 opposed and 1 abstained, this 20th day of July 2000.
