Project Summary

The Navajo Epidemiology Center (NEC) is a program within the Navajo Department of Health (NDOH), which serves one of the largest Native American tribes in the United States. Navajo Nation covers 27,425 square miles and has a total population of approximately 173,667 (2010 Census). It is estimated that an additional 175,000 tribal members live in border towns and metropolitan areas. Portions of Arizona, New Mexico, and Utah extend into the Navajo Nation lands, necessitating collaborative relationships with the "three-states" on a number of fronts, including public health. The Navajo Nation operates one of the largest tribal governments in the United States. It is comprised of the three branches - the executive, judicial, and legislative branches. According to NEC's mortality report, the Navajo Nation's top-ten leading causes of death are as follows (from one to ten): unintentional injuries, cancer, heart disease, diabetes, liver cirrhosis, influenza/pneumonia, stroke, dementia, septicemia, and suicide.

The NEC, established in 2005, is responsible for: 1) Managing Navajo Nation's public health information systems; 2) investigating diseases and injuries of concern; 3) Providing data and reports to help health programs effectively manage programs; 5) Responding to public health emergencies; and, 6) coordinating activities with other public health authorities. The NEC's primary objectives are: data collection, analysis and interpretation; disease surveillance; disease control and prevention; and data sharing. The NEC is one of twelve Tribal Epidemiology Centers across the United States.

Since its inception, the NEC has established successful working relationships with three surrounding states (AZ, NM, UT), regional tribal epidemiology centers, local and regional academic institutions, federal partners (CDC, ATSDR, IHS), and international groups (e.g., the International Group for Indigenous Health Measurement). In addition, NEC staff regularly provides public health, epidemiologic and scientific technical assistance to the Navajo Department on Health and participates in local, regional and national tribal consultation meetings.

The primary focus of this application is to build upon the success from the past 5 years to significantly advance progress in the 7 core areas outlined herein. Through this application we recognize the need for all to join hands to lend support in our efforts to meet the health care needs of the Navajo people. To effectively reduce the health disparities that affect the Navajo people will continue to work together with politicians and policy makers at the local, state, and federal levels, public health professionals, private grant-making foundations, universities, researchers, and ordinary people who want to increase the health status of the Navajo people.

Estimated number of people to be served as a result of the award of this grant.

Project Narrative

1. Collect data relating to, and monitor progress made toward meeting, each of the health status objectives of the service, the Indian Tribes, Tribal organizations, and urban Indian organizations in the Service area: The NEC aims to build upon the success from the past 5 years to significantly advance progress in identifying priority health concerns via collection of Navajo-specific health information.
  - a. Gain authorization for direct access to electronic medical records and epi data mart via existing data sharing agreement with Navajo Area Indian Health Service.
  - b. Establish MOU between Navajo Epidemiology Center and Utah Department of Health for sharing of Navajo public health data (vital statistics, hospitalizations, communicable diseases, notifiable diseases, birth defects).
  - c. Renew existing MOUs between Navajo Epidemiology Center and Arizona and New Mexico Departments of Health for sharing of Navajo public health data (vital statistics, hospitalizations, communicable diseases, notifiable diseases, birth defects).
  - d. Establish MOU between Navajo Epidemiology Center and 3 Navajo Area 638 healthcare facilities (Tuba City Hospital, Utah Navajo Health System, Sage Memorial Hospital) as they do not participate in sharing Navajo public health data with Navajo Area Indian Health Service.
  - e. Continue to partner with local, state, and federal agencies to collect Navajo public health data to generate reports (mortality, cancer, PRAMS, injury, tribal BRFSS, behavioral health, infectious disease, chronic disease).
2. Evaluate existing delivery systems, data systems, and other systems that impact the improvement of Indian health. The NEC is working closely with Johns Hopkins Center for American Indian Health to provide technical assistance in developing program evaluation for NDOH programs to gain insight into whether activities are achieving their desired results, improve program services and disseminate information to others regarding program success.
  - a. Develop program evaluation involving the systematic collection of information to better understand the effectiveness of the following NDOH programs and their curricula: Breast and Cervical Cancer Prevention, CHR, Health Education and HIV Prevention, Injury Prevention, Diabetes Prevention, Methamphetamine and Suicide Prevention Initiative (MSPI), and Domestic Violence Prevention Initiative (DVPI).
3. Assist Indian Tribes, Tribal organizations, and urban Indian organizations in identifying highest-priority health status objectives and the services needed to achieve those objectives, based on epidemiological data: The NEC aims to build upon the success from the past 5 years to significantly advance progress in identifying priority health concerns via collection of Navajo-specific health information.
  - a. The NEC aims to renew the data sharing agreements with the Arizona and New Mexico Departments of Health and update its mortality report entitled: "Navajo Nation Mortality Report 2006-2009." The updated report will cover years 2010-2015 (Utah Navajo mortality will be added upon establishment of data sharing agreement with Utah Department of Health).
  - b. The NEC's Navajo Cancer Epidemiology Workgroup (NCEW) is in the process of developing the 2nd Navajo Cancer Report 2005-2013. The NCEW consists of members who represent federal, state, and tribal organizations. The NCEW meets on a monthly basis and working towards generating rates for mortality, incidence, stage, and screening.

- c. The NEC's Navajo Pregnancy Risk Assessment Monitoring System (PRAMS) Workgroup aims to develop the 3rd Navajo PRAMS report, 2012-2015. The Navajo PRAMS Project is a partnership between NEC, New Mexico and Utah Departments of Health, and CDC (Arizona Department of Health was recently awarded PRAMS funding and NEC aims to partner to reach out Navajo mothers in Arizona). The PRAMS Project is a health surveillance system that addresses maternal attitudes, behaviors and experiences occurring before, during and after pregnancy among women giving live birth. The Navajo PRAMS report focuses on Navajo mothers and their infants living within the Navajo Nation. The workgroup meets on a monthly basis and consist of members who represent federal, state, and tribal organizations.
- d. The NEC aims to update its injury report entitled "A Description of Fatal Car Crashes Occurring within the Navajo Nation and among its Border Towns 2005-2009." The updated report will cover years 2010-2015. According to the NEC's "Navajo Nation Mortality Report, 2006 – 2009" unintentional injury due to car crashes is the number one cause of death on the Navajo Nation. The data is obtained from the Fatality Analysis Reporting System via National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. With technical assistance from Johns Hopkins Center for American Indian Health, the NEC will conduct motor vehicle crash surveillance using readily available data sources.
- e. The NEC aims to compile, enter, and analyze the tribal BRFSS survey data, and develop a comprehensive report including fact sheets. Furthermore, NEC aims to disseminate the survey findings back to the NN communities. The dissemination plan of the survey findings will be reviewed by the Navajo Nation Human Research Review Board prior to communicating the information to NN communities. In addition, NEC will provide technical assistance to NN communities with development of community wellness plans using the survey findings to enhance the health status of Navajo people.
- f. The NEC aims to develop an Indigenous evaluation tool for the behavioral health treatment centers to evaluate the program milieu, program structure, clinical process (treatment, assessment, and aftercare), program staffing, and training focusing on cultural appropriateness and level of cultural emphasis for Native clients called the Tribal Core Toolkit. The Tribal Core works parallel with SAMHSA's Dual Diagnosis Capability in Addictions Treatment Toolkit.
- g. The NEC aims to develop the Navajo suicide surveillance report. The project is in partnership with Navajo Area Indian Health Service. A comprehensive data collection instrument was developed to capture data on suicidal behavior. The NEC and Indian Health Service are addressing mental health, suicide prevention, and behavioral health issues as part of the suicide surveillance system. The project will help to monitor and evaluate programs to manage efficiently, reduce duplication, and target use of resources.
- h. The NEC aims to work closely with Johns Hopkins Center for American Indian Health to develop the first infectious disease surveillance report for the Navajo Nation.
- i. The NEC and Navajo Epidemiology Advisory Team will continue its collaborative efforts with the Navajo Area Indian Health Service Epidemiology Response Teams, who are located at each of the Navajo Area Indian Health Service health care facilities. The teams work to ensure rapid, coordinated detection and response to outbreaks of communicable diseases and promote comprehensive outbreak surveillance and investigation. It also seeks to improve the collaboration and partnership among officials in local, state, and federal agencies who work with communicable disease outbreak surveillance and response activities.

4. Make recommendations for the targeting of services needed by the populations served: The NEC aims to build upon the success from the past 5 years to significantly advance progress to translate Navajo-specific data and reports generated into addressing priority health concerns. NEC proposes the following recommendations that constitute a framework that public health professionals, healthcare providers, and communities can use to reduce disease burden of Navajo Nation:
  - a. Expand collaboration among Navajo tribal health programs, Indian Health Service and tribally operated facilities, and local communities in order to translate the data into targeted and culturally appropriate prevention and intervention programs.
  - b. Continue meaningful partnership with local, state, and federal agencies cancer to further utilize and improve population-based disease surveillance data and maintain on-going surveillance activities on Navajo Nation.
  - c. Promote research that examines risk factors for many of diseases.
  - d. Increase targeted and culturally appropriate education and awareness about disease prevention and health promotion.
  - e. Increase education and training for NDOH staff.
5. Make recommendations to improve health care delivery systems for Indians and urban Indians: The NEC aims to build upon the success from the past 5 years to significantly advance progress by providing reports based on epidemiologic data to inform and educate public health professionals, medical providers, Navajo Nation health programs and local, state and federal agencies.
  - a. The reports will be disseminated via the NEC website, which will contain special pages devoted to specific projects.
  - b. Additional dissemination of reports will occur through Navajo community (chapter, IHS, health boards, tribal council) presentations, presentations at conferences regionally and nationally, and through publication in a peer-reviewed journals.
  - c. The NEC's principal strategies are aligned with NDOH's goals – Generate Navajo-specific health data to effectively plan and make decisions that best meet the health needs of Navajo communities. We believe the reports and dissemination efforts will allow for better understanding of the occurrence, patterns and causes of disease among the Navajos, and thereby the Navajo Nation will be better to develop interventions, research, and policies to reduce disease burden.
6. Provide technical assistance to Indian Tribes, Tribal organizations, and urban Indian organizations in the development of local health service priorities and incidence and prevalence rates of disease and other illness in the community.
  - a. Training and Capacity Building: The NEC is working closely with Johns Hopkins Center for American Indian Health to provide critical epidemiology and public health training for 10 Navajo Department of Health (NDOH) staff members. The staff members will participate in the Center's state of the art Public Health Training Certificate in American Indian Health. The program is an 18-credit, graduate-level certificate that will equip the Navajo DOH staff members with skills to address health issues in tribal communities through multidisciplinary public health approaches and culturally relevant strategies. The courses will be taken at Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health through the Institute series that are conducted for one week in the summer (July) and winter (January). The courses provide in-depth training on the core competencies of public health through an indigenous lens and three of the eight courses solely focus on epidemiology, data management and research methods, which are critical competencies for the participating staff members. The ten participants will complete the certificate within three years and the breakdown of the courses and cost follows (please see budget for breakdown of cost per institute).

In addition to the Certificate Series, Johns Hopkins Center Senior Epidemiologist, Dr. Jessica Atwell, and Training Director, Ms. Kristen Speakman, will provide semi-annual trainings to the Navajo Epi Center staff on core epidemiology and biostatistics principles as apply to their ongoing projects. The semi-annual trainings will take place every spring and fall at the Navajo Nation Department of Health Offices. The specific areas of focus for the workshops will be advanced epidemiology and biostats skills, surveillance, survey design, database development, and data management.

- b. Outbreak Response Capacity: The NEC is a member of the NN all-hazards response plan. NEC staff will continue to participate in communicable disease tabletop trainings with NN entities and local, state, and federal partners. Such partnerships allow effective and efficient execution of activities and strengthen collaborative efforts across all jurisdictions. In addition, NEC staff will continue to participate in the National Incident Management System trainings, Navajo Incident Command System activities, and provide epidemiologic expertise.

The NEC will also continue to serve as a public health authority during disease outbreaks in partnership with local, state, and federal agencies, including NAIHS, CDC epi-aid investigations, and meetings relating to local, regional and nationwide outbreaks and emergencies. In addition, NEC staff will continue to participate in trainings related to disease outbreak investigation, infectious disease epidemiology, and other related areas to increase staff competence and capacity. The NEC will continue to develop the Navajo Health Alert Network (NHAN) using the CDC and state systems as models. The NHAN will be used as a communication tool to inform the public about outbreaks, emergencies, and public health threats. The NEC works closely with the NDOH's public information officer, who alerts the Navajo public through press releases, radio forums and PSAs using both English and Navajo languages. NDOH PSAs are developed by an internal team of health educators who are fluent Navajo speakers, public health emergency preparedness staff, public health nursing staff, and NEC staff. Lastly, the NEC will continue to strengthen the Navajo Epi Response Team, which works with local, state, and federal agencies investigating disease outbreaks on the NN. The team includes staff from NDOH public health emergency preparedness, public health nursing, environmental health, health education, CHR, and NEC. The outbreak response activities and training will build and strengthen tribal capacity to effectively and efficiently respond to public health emergencies and threats.

7. Provide disease surveillance and assist Indian Tribes, Tribal organizations, and urban Indian organizations to promote public health.

- a. Infectious Disease Surveillance: The NEC will strengthen infectious disease surveillance systems to better monitor emerging public health/epidemiologic issues among the Navajo people. Current surveillance activities will be expanded to include active, population-based surveillance for additional communicable infectious diseases (measles, pertussis, invasive group A strep, tuberculosis), STIs (HIV, syphilis, chlamydia), food borne pathogens, vector-borne and zoonotic diseases (hantavirus, west nile virus, rocky mountain spotted fever, plague), and other emerging threats (zika virus, onchocerca lupi).

In addition, the NEC will collaborate with Johns Hopkins Center for American Indian Health (JHCAIH) on active, population-based surveillance to determine the incidence and epidemiologic characteristics of invasive disease due to S. pneumoniae, H. influenzae, N. meningitidis, and S. aureus on the NN. JHCAIH staff members actively contact laboratory facilities on and around the NN on a daily or weekly basis, depending on the facility. Bacterial isolates that meet the project inclusion criteria are shipped to the JHCAIH laboratory. Chart reviews will be conducted on all cases that are detected through the surveillance system. Active Bacterial Surveillance (ABS) data will be shared with the NEC; NEC and JHCAIH will collaborate on analyses to estimate the burden of disease and track disease trends over time. The JHCAIH ABS program has been approved by the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health IRB, NN IRB and National IHS IRB (Appendix). In addition to the ABS collaboration, JHCAIH epidemiologists will be available to consult with NEC staff regarding the expansion of other surveillance systems or analysis of surveillance data outlined above.

- b. Motor Vehicle Crash Surveillance: Motor vehicle crashes (MVCs) are the leading cause of unintentional injury death on NN and account for 40% of unintentional injury deaths. Similar to overall unintentional injury mortality, the rate of motor vehicle related mortality is significantly higher among Navajo compared to the US and neighboring states. MVC mortality rates on Navajo Nation are 4 times higher than the US population, 3.7 times higher than Arizona, 2.4 times higher than New Mexico and 5.1 times higher than Utah (see table 1). Due to high rates of motor vehicle related deaths, motor vehicle crash surveillance is a priority for NEC.

Table 1: Age-Adjusted Mortality Rates per 100,000

Cause	Navajo 2006-2009 <sup>1</sup>	US 2009	Arizona 2009 <sup>1,2</sup>	New Mexico 2009 <sup>1,2</sup>	Utah 2009
Unintentional Injuries	126.6	37.5	43.1	65.6	37.0
Motor Vehicle Crash	44.8	11.0	12.1	18.0	8.8

1. Navajo Epidemiology Center, Navajo Nation Mortality Report, 2006-2009.

2. Insurance Institute for Highway Safety Highway Loss Data Institute. General Statistics 2009.

With technical assistance from Johns Hopkins Center for American Indian Health, the NEC will conduct motor vehicle crash surveillance using readily available data sources (Fatality Analysis Reporting System, tribal police, state police, department of transportation, department of highway safety, Indian Health Service). Surveillance will provide critical information that will help NEC to: 1) Better understand the burden of motor vehicle related injuries; 2) Identify risk factor for severe and fatal crashes (i.e. alcohol involvement, location, time of day); and, 3) Guide implementation of data informed interventions. Johns Hopkins Center for American Indian Health researchers, Anne Kenney, Ally Maschino, and Wendy Shields who are founding members of the Navajo Nation Injury Prevention Coalition will assist with project management, data analyses, and reporting.

- c. Tribal BRFSS – Navajo Nation Health Survey: The past five years, NEC developed and implemented the administration of the survey within the five Navajo Nation agencies (Eastern, Fort Defiance, Western, Northern, and Chinle). The next five years, NEC plans to compile, enter, and analyze the survey data, and develop a comprehensive report including fact sheets. Furthermore, NEC plans to disseminate the survey findings back to the NN communities during years 1-3. The dissemination plan of the survey findings will be reviewed by the Navajo Nation Human Research Review Board prior to communicating the information to NN communities. In addition to communicating the survey findings, NEC will provide technical assistance to NN communities with development of community wellness plans using the survey findings. Lastly, NEC plans to continue to build upon the success of the past five years by conducting the second phase of the administration of the survey within the five Navajo Nation agencies in years 3-5 to begin establishing trends.
